TOWN TOPICS

NEW NOTARY—John M. Redmond of Florence yesterday was granted a commission as notary public for Arizona.

NEW APPOINTEE—J. P. Robinson of Tucson yesterday was appointed by Governor Campbell to be state land appraiser, succeeding Hon. W. A. Moody, whose resignation will take effect on June 15.

NEW CORPORATIONS—Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday in the office of the state corporation commission by the following new concerns: Jerome New York Copper company, National Safety Powder company, National Reserve Oil company.

LOW RATE TO SAN DIEGO—An account of the friendship of the Santa Fe railroad will have on sale from all stations in Arizona to San Diego, an open excursion fare of one and a third fares. On sale June 29 and 30, limited 15 days.

ASK LAND LEASES—More than thirty cattle and sheep men were at the state land office in the state house yesterday, where before William A. Moody, state land commissioner, they urged their claims to leases of state lands in Queen Creek valley in Pinal county.

TRIAL POSTPONED—The trial of Leonard and Clark at St. John charges of having sold corporation stock in the state without a permit has been postponed for ninety days on account of the serious illness of one of the defendants, Sam W. Proctor, secretary of the state corporation commission, has been subpoenaed to testify against the men.

WEDDING—Marriage licenses were issued yesterday to Joseph Ponce, 23, and Maria D. Barnera, 15, both of Tempe; John Nelson Armour, 24, of Phoenix and Mabelle Marguerite, 24, of Phoenix; and Clinton Diefendorf, 48, of Ray and Allene Stella Harter, 45, of Delphos, Ohio; Juan Romero, 21, and Josefa Salazar, 18, both of Phoenix.

CAUTION—Policeman E. G. Crowe, who looks after the destinies of the Central avenue-Washington street district during the day time, begins his annual vacation today. He expects to be enforced a tour of the northern part of the state, visiting the Arizona mines, in which he is interested and possibly going over into the White Mountains. His family will leave for the coast in a few days.

SEEKING J. R. DAVIS—An inquiry has been received as to the whereabouts of J. R. Davis, said to have been a resident of Phoenix and at one time a station agent for some railroad in Arizona. Any person having knowledge of the present abode of Davis is requested to communicate with Simpson, The Republican office.

GIVEN HEAVY FINE—Ed Fitzsimmons and E. Treanor were each fined $100 in police court by City Magistrate Frank Thomas yesterday afternoon. The two had been arrested on charges of peddling without a license. It is charged that they were making sales of dress goods in a house-to-house canvass without having first visited the office of the city license collector.

CENTRAL SPEED LIMIT—The sheriff's office announces that the enforcement of the ordinance with respect to speed limits on Central avenue will begin today and tomorrow, June 16. Signs have been placed along the boulevard, fixing the maximum speed between McDowell Road and the Grand canal at 20 miles an hour and between the canal and the Country club at 25 miles an hour. So far those signs have been regarded as mere ornaments but after sunset tomorrow, it will be proved that they mean something.

OFF TO SAN DIEGO—Ben F. Estes, foreman of The Arizona Republican news composing room, joined the ranks of summer widowers yesterday, when Mrs. Estes, wife and known to several weeks visiting her mother, Mrs. P. T. Coffield, Mr. Estes plans to spend several weeks wishing to goodness the railroads would refuse to sell tickets to women with babies in arms. Of course, every cloud has a silver lining and Mr. Estes expects to discover the silver lining to his present cloud in the fact that he has a two passenger automobile, with one seat that will go to waste unless somebody comes to his rescue.

OBITUARIES

George F. Gardiner, of eight years a respected resident of Phoenix, died after a brief illness yesterday morning. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Grace Stacy Gardiner, a son, John Grace Gardiner and a daughter, Miss Grace Stacy Gardiner. A sister, Mrs. Joseph P. Bailey of Salt Lake City also survives.

Mr. Gardiner was a native of New York and was 45 years of age. He was widely known in this section and was a member of both the Arizona and Phoenix Country clubs. He was both a promoter and stock salesman and had been instrumental in the successful launching of a number of Arizona companies, including the Arizona Fire Insurance company. Funeral announced later.

DEL REY LEASE

CHANGES HANDS

An important lease sale yesterday was that of the Del Rey hotel, north corner Central avenue and Monroe street, the lease and furniture of which was sold by Mrs. Jennie Henry to Francis Ford and sister Mrs. J.

Corby, both of Pittsburgh, Pa. A nominal consideration was named in the deed, but the actual consideration is said to have been large and entirely cash. Possession already has been taken by the new proprietors. Mr. Ford was in Phoenix to close the sale. Mrs. Corby will arrive in a few days.

Mrs. Henn, who has owned and conducted the hotel for the past four years, has left Phoenix for her former home in Wyoming. During her tenure of this city, her husband had died. This occurrence had her own ill health was the reason for the sale of the hotel and her return to her former home.

The Del Rey hotel building and the ground it occupies is owned by Dr. Robert Craig. It is a two-story building, the hotel being entirely on the second floor. It contains twenty-five rooms. The sale was made by Mrs. D. F. Holt, 37 West Adams street, who represented both parties in the transaction.

STATE IS 74

TO GOOD WITH

MORE COMING

One more county, Yavapai, reported its complete registration yesterday to Colonel Fred S. Breen as 3,466. The government estimate for that county was only 2,322, which is 1,144 less than the actual registration. Two more counties, Pinal and Mohave, still remain with uncompleted registration reports, but these are expected today. The total registration of the twelve counties reported and the state percentage is 33,942. The government estimate for the twelve counties is 32,968, there being an excess of 974 over the estimate. It is expected that the totals to be returned by Mohave and Pinal counties will be above the estimate, leaving Arizona on the right side of the ledger.

Everything in readiness in Arizona for the next step in the operation of the selective service law, the sessions of the boards of exemption which in each county will consist of the sheriff, the county recorder and the county physician. All claims for exemption will be made to them, and it is expected that they will be very busy men in investigating all these claims.

Appeal from the decision of the county exemption boards can be made by either the man or the government to a national board of three men appointed by the president in each federal judicial district.

WAGE LAW NOT

YET CHECKED

The tedious job of checking over the names of those persons who have requested that their names be taken off petitions asking for a referendum of the minimum wage law is still in progress in the office of Secretary of State Osborn. It will not be completed before tonight at the earliest, at which time it will be known whether there will be a referendum or the bill will become a law.

There are 194 petitions containing more than 3,500 names asking for a referendum of the minimum wage law, with more than 800 requests accompanied by affidavits for withdrawal of names from the petitions.

Do not wait till tomorrow—phone that WANT AD to The Republican office now, and get your wish fulfilled.

HOW A DRAFT WAS EVADED

During the Civil War Draft Followed Conscription Order

The draft process is a very different thing in 1917 from what it was in 1862. In those days the process was much simpler. Every county, every city, every township, was simply assigned a quota that it had to fill. So much population in a town, so many able-bodied men to furnish. If they volunteered, well and good—fine. If not, that had to be done about it. If they did not, the names of the men still liable for military duty were put in a box or a hat, each on a separate slip of paper, and one name after another was drawn out, sometimes by a blindfolded boy. If your name was drawn, you were liable to serve, provided you passed the physical examination.

The draft was responsible for a considerable amount of something else that sounded a good deal like it, and that was graft. Some of the examining doctors were not above suspicion, and a good many men of robust appearance turned out to have strange and hitherto unsuspected diseases, while the examining doctors bought new houses and high society.

Given Bonus to Enlist

There was still another form of graft which flourished in those days. Before the draft was resorted to, and even while it was in progress, many men in money were offered to men to volunteer to fill quotas. State, town and subscription bounties were sometimes so piled up that men received $500 in certain instances as bounties to enlist, though $300 was probably about the average. Well, a man's name was drawn to serve, but he was privately "tipped off" before the name was announced. Instantly he volunteered, got his bounty and had the enlistment dated back one day, so that it appeared on the record that he had enlisted before he was drafted. In that case he was expected to give the man who had tipped him off, and also the man who had attested his enlistment, something—it was war days and another respect. There will be no sending of substitutes. In those days a man who was drafted and did not want to go had the privilege of sending a substitute. Very few men of wealth actually served as drafted men. Substitutes cost them, according to the local supply of able bodied men, from $300 to $1,000. Among the distinguished men who sent substitutes to the civil war were James G. Blaine and Grover Cleveland.

Generally speaking, it was deemed a disgrace after the war to have sent a substitute, but in many cases it was no disgrace at all. The drafted man had an aged parent or some other dependent person to support or take care of, or could not accept of service without compromising his person to public charity. It took young Grover Cleveland some
